FIGHT IN THE GLARE OF ENORMOUS SEARCHLIGHTS

WITHDRAWS FROM FIGHT

British Fleet Quits Belgian Coast.

MAY MOUNT BIG GUNS

Germans Probably Will Use Heavy Artillery on Warships.

London, Oct. 27.—The British fleet, which bombarded the German flank as they advanced along the coast, seems to have withdrawn. The Germans say this was because their artillery was beginning to reach the ships. The belief is expressed here, however, that the fleet will be able to make untenable German occupation of any part of the Belgian or French coasts.

The opinion also is expressed here that the operations of the allied vessels in the North sea off the Belgian coast and in the vicinity of the Straits of Dover may cause the German fleet to come out and give battle.

In naval circles here it is considered that the German submarines, although they have proved deadly to ships steaming slowly, will not be so effective against ships steaming and maneuvering at high speed and in shallow waters, as the British monitors and their auxiliaries have been doing.

British Sailors Confident.

There is some talk of the Germans bringing their big 42-centimeter guns to the coast to use against the allied warships, but the British sailors are credited with saying that their vessels can prevent these guns being put in position. They say that even if they should be mounted they will not be so deadly against a fast moving target as they were against the stationary forts which they destroyed so easily.

The battle for the Straits of Dover, one of the most sanguinary of the war, is continuing with unabated fury. The Germans, who at terrible cost in life, succeeded Saturday in crossing the Yser canal between Nieuport and Dixmude, have not been able to make any further progress. The allies, according to a report of the general headquarters, obstinately are defending their positions.

It is the same further south, around Armentieres, Lille, La Bassée and Arras. The opposing armies are delivering fierce attacks, gaining or losing a few miles or less of ground with sacrifices in life that are appalling. The whole countryside fairly is reeking with the blood of thousands of killed or wounded.

Towns and Villages in Ruins.

In the towns and villages with which the country is dotted, and most of which have been laid in ruins by the artillery, most desperate fighting has occurred where the cavalry and infantry came into contact. Both sides speak of the heavy losses they have imposed on their adversaries, but say nothing of their own dead or wounded, to fill the places of whom reinforcements are being brought forward.

While this life and death struggle is going on in the west the French have become more active in the east along the Alsatian border and are said to be making preparations and taking advanced positions in view of possible attacks by the Germans with their big howitzers on the Belfort fortress. It now seems to be realized that no fortress has any chance of holding out when once these big German guns are brought into action against it.

The German official report again speaks of the German offensive on Augustow, Russian Poland, which it declares is progressing. It reiterates that the battle near Ivangorod, although favorable to the Germans, remains undecided.

North of this section the Russians claim still to be pursuing the Germans who attempted an advance on Warsaw and southward to have crossed the Vistula and driven the Austrians backwards.

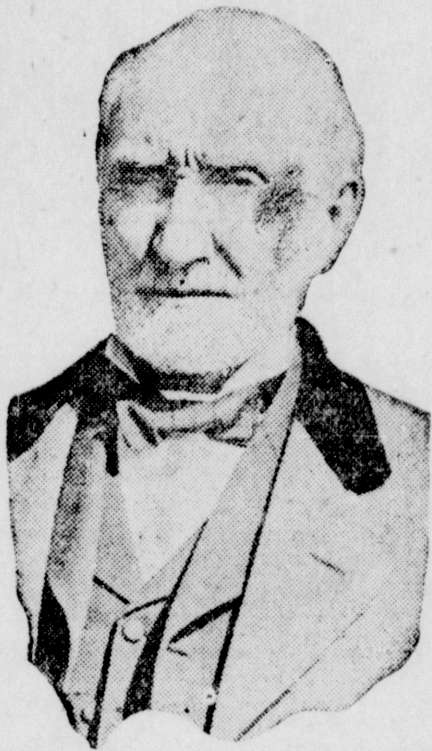

In Galicia and in the Carpathians the Russians also say they have broken down the Austrian offensive.

Australia's Gold.

The gold fields of Western Australia are the largest known. They cover 224,400 square miles.

JOSEPH G. CANNON.

President Wilson Opposes His Election to Congress.

MANY AMERICANS ENLISTING

Second Canadian Force Will Sail in December.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 27.—It has been decided to send 15,000 more Canadians to Europe in December instead of 10,000, the number specified in the announcement of Premier Borden two weeks ago. The ready response to the call for volunteers and speedy delivery of rifles and other equipment have enabled the government to increase the size of the second expeditionary force.

The Royal Canadian regiment, 1,000 strong, which is garrisoned at Bermuda, will go with the second contingent, and the place of the regiment at Bermuda will be taken by less experienced men.

Many offers for service with the second Canadian contingent are being received from the United States. The military department is unable to accept offers from across the line, but enlistment officers do not hesitate to accept Americans for service when they are in Canada.

GERMANS COMPLETE MIGHTY ZEPPELIN

Most Powerful One Launched Flies at Great Speed.

Geneva, Oct. 27.—The most powerful Zeppelin yet constructed has just been completed at Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance. Without preliminary trials it flew away northward at great speed, cheered by the soldiers, who shouted "On to London."

Count Zeppelin himself was present at the launching of the airship, which has a special armored compartment for bombs near the propellers and a big gun mounted in front to destroy aeroplanes.

A second airship will be ready at the end of this month. This is the thirty-first of the new type. Other Zeppelins are being built at Düsseldorf, Colmar and Berlin, the German staff desiring the number to be brought up to 100 as speedily as possible.

STEAMSHIP SUNK BY MINE

About Twenty or Thirty Persons Are Drowned.

Dover, Oct. 27.—The steamer Admiral Ganteaume was sunk by a mine just outside Boulogne harbor. About twenty or thirty persons were drowned, owing to the panic which prevailed as the passengers were being transferred to the cross channel steamer Queen, which rushed to the assistance of the sinking vessel.

Most of the passengers were peasants from Pas de Calais, who had been taken aboard at Calais to be transferred to Boulogne.

YOUNG WOMAN SHOTS THIEF

Illinois Miss Then Prevents Robber Escaping.

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—Miss Marion Roper, eighteen years old, prevented a robbery in her father's grocery store at Alton, Ill., by shooting the would-be thief in the back and then preventing his escape.

Special to The Dispatch:—

Paris, Oct. 27, 11:52 A. M.—With a number of heavy guns mounted to protect their front and with hundreds of light pieces and rapid firers deluging the Allied lines with shrapnel and bullets, the Germans today continued their effort to get through to the coast from the north and east. Inside the Dixmude and Nieuport line the fighting has continued without letup all night, the combatants operating in the glare of enormous searchlights.

CLAIM GERMAN LINE IS BROKEN

Special to The Dispatch:—

London Oct. 27, 3:08 P. M.—The unyielding German line which for six weeks stretched across France is said on the authority of the French war office to have been broken at last. Near the Eastern end of the line in the region beyond Nancy, today's official French statement reports the invaders were driven back on German soil. At other points over a long line the offensive has been resumed by the Allied forces, after a long period of comparative inaction.

400 IMPRISONED, COAL MINE DISASTER

Special to The Dispatch:—

Herrin, Ill., October 27, 11:52 A. M.—Four hundred men are imprisoned in the Royalton coal mine north of here by an explosion that partly wrecked the colliery this morning. The government mine rescue car has been rushed to the scene.

MINERS CAUGHT IN BURNING LEVEL

Special to The Dispatch:—

Royalton, Ill., Oct. 27, 3:08 P. M.—At least forty miners lost their lives when 300 men were caught in the Mitchell mine near here by a gas explosion. One hundred men escaped. Thirty or forty bodies were found by rescuers and one hundred are known to be imprisoned in the lower level which was burning.

ARCHDUKE'S SLAYERS GUILTY OF TREASON

Gavrio Prinzip and Twenty-three Others Convicted.

London, Oct. 27.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Rome gives the following, received from Sarajevo, Bosnia:

"Gavrio Prinzip, the assassin, and Grabez, a student, Nedeljko Gabrinovic and twenty-one of Prinzip's accomplices were found guilty of treason for the killing of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife.

"As the court pronounced the verdict there could be heard distinctly the rumble of the artillery of the Serbians who had fought desperately to capture the city and liberate the prisoners, all of whom are Slavs.

"The court will pronounce sentence Wednesday."

Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austro-Hungarian throne, and his wife were shot to death by Prinzip while on a visit to Sarajevo June 28 last.

FARMER SLAYS RAIL AGENT

Shot Down as Deputy Sheriff Stands Nearby.

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 27.—Station Agent O. C. Hunter of the Northwest railroad at Midland, fifty miles west of Pierre, was shot and killed by A. P. Helm, a farmer with whom he had a dispute.

Deputy Sheriff Norman of Stanley county had just stepped out of the station and was on the platform when the shot was fired. He placed Helm under arrest.

Usury.

Artist—I've spent a dollar car fare toting that sketch around town, yet you only offer me $2. Art Editor—Well, that's 100 per cent on your money, isn't it?—Life.

ARE FACING STARVATION

Belgians in Urgent Need of Food.

SUPPLY RUNNING LOW

Seven Million People Unable to Secure Necessities.

Brussels, Oct. 27.—Seven million people in Belgium face famine, unless they receive help from the outside at once.

The American minister to Belgium, Brand Whitlock, says that less than two weeks' supply of food remains in the cities, while conditions in the country districts are even worse. Though Germany has seized the food in some cities for her soldiers she still disclaims responsibility for feeding the Belgians.

Mr. Whitlock has on hand only peasants' black bread for two weeks and the supply of that is short. One hundred soup kitchens are feeding more than 100,000 of the needy in Brussels.

Persons formerly rich are discharging their servants because they are bankrupt.

Noblemen may be seen slipping into the soup kitchens.

The factories are closed. Many stores remain open, but have no business. The street cars are being operated, but the railway train service has been suspended. The supplies of coffee, tea, flour, rice and salt are practically exhausted.

Peasants in Sad Plight.

Reports received by Minister Whitlock from Louvain, Liege and Namur say that the conditions in these cities are even worse than they are in Brussels. Louvain has only a short four days' supply of flour, while Liege has no flour at all. The peasants in many districts have been forced to exist on legumes, as the crops of beets and cabbages have been ruined.

The meat and milk supplies also have been cut off, the army having taken the cattle. It is declared absolutely essential that food be obtained from England.

Nearly half of those people who have been able to remain in Belgium are wandering helplessly from town to town, seeking shelter from friends and relatives. Malines, which formerly had 60,000 inhabitants, has few undamaged houses standing. The same situation exists at Namur and Louvain.

The road from Antwerp to Brussels is black with processions of people moving in both directions. Wagons and carts are filled with the wreckage of their household effects. Thousands on foot are carrying bundles or pushing dog carts, always moving but with no definite destination.

*****
FIFTEEN BRITISH OFFICERS KILLED.

London, Oct. 27.—A casualty list was issued today Oct. 22-23. It reported fifteen officers killed, fifty-two wounded and seventeen missing. Among the wounded is Lieutenant Sir Philip Lee Brookhurst, who accompanied the British arctic expedition in 1907.

CANADIAN PREMIER'S VIEWS

Says Canada Does Not Fear German Invasion.

Hot Springs, Va., Oct. 27.—Sir Robert L. Borden, premier of Canada, saw here for the first time the published statement of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, that invasion of Canada by Germany would not be a violation of the Monroe doctrine. He remarked that Canada does not consider a German invasion imminent just now and that the relation of the Monroe doctrine to such an improbability hardly had been considered.

Cholera Spreading Fast.

London, Oct. 27.—A dispatch from Bucharest to the Daily Telegraph says cholera is spreading rapidly in Austria. In one day forty cases were reported in Moravia, 120 in Galicia and three in Vienna.

Congressional Campaign Committee Reports $25,422 in Gifts.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Total expenditures of the Republican congressional campaign committee, according to the report filed with the clerk of the house of representatives, for the November elections, were $24,767.88. Receipts of the committee were $25,422.89.

Contributions of $1,000 each were made by Senator Weeks of Massachusetts; Stephenson of Wisconsin; Root of New York; Du Pont of Delaware; Oliver of Pennsylvania and former Senator Chauncey M. Depew of New York.

Fails to "Eradicate Evil."

Marshfield, Mo., Oct. 27.—Because his attempts to eradicate "the evil," which he found "too abundant on every hand," were fruitless, Rev. Walter Marion Rudolph, pastor of the Baptist church here, committed suicide. He drank poison.

EDUCATOR HELD IN CONTEMPT

Cleveland Superintendent of Schools Must Reinstatement Teachers.

Cleveland, Oct. 27.—J. M. H. Frederick, superintendent of the Cleveland public schools, was found guilty of contempt of court and ordered to reinstate six teachers whom he failed to reappoint last spring because, it was alleged, of their activities in a teachers' union. He was accused of contempt for violating an injunction restraining school heads from refusing to reappoint prouction teachers. Attorneys for the teachers assert the decision paves the way for the unionization of teachers.

RELEASE AMERICAN VESSEL

British Authorities Allow Tank Steamer to Proceed.

London, Oct. 27.—The British government, satisfied, after an examination, of the innocence of the destination of her cargo, has ordered the release of the American oil tank steamer Brindilla, which will be permitted to proceed to Alexandria.

The question of the transfer of the vessel from the German to the flag of the United States will not be raised by the British government. The Brindilla, which was carrying a cargo of illuminating oil, was seized by the British gunboat Caronia and taken into Halifax, N. S., Oct. 19.

Russians to Hold Lemberg.

London, Oct. 27.—According to a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Rotterdam the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin says that the Russians, who had withdrawn most of their troops from Lemberg, have now sent 80,000 men there who are strenuously fortifying the town. The Russians, the paper says, are clearly determined to keep Lemberg at all costs.

JOINS IN FIGHT AGAINST CANNON

LETTER WRITING CAMPAIGN

Chief Executive Has Taken an Active Interest in Various Candidates in a Number of States—Hopes Elections Will Result in Democratic Majorities in the Senate and House.

Washington, Oct. 27.—President Wilson has joined in the fight against the election to the house of former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois by writing a letter endorsing Representative Frank T. O'Hair of Illinois, who defeated Mr. Cannon at the last election.

Mr. Wilson has practically finished his letter writing campaign, sending endorsements to Democratic candidates in a number of states. He has been assured by the campaign members that the elections will result in Democratic majorities in the senate and house, but will continue to work as much as possible for particular candidates.

In addition to the Democratic senatorial candidates whom the president already has publicly endorsed he is giving his support to James H. Hawley in Ohio, H. E. Baldwin in Connecticut, George A. Neely in Kansas, W. E. Purcell in North Dakota, Edward Johnson in South Dakota and James H. Moyle in Utah.

MILLIONS IN NEW FIRMS

Incorporations Reflect Minnesota Financial Conditions.

St. Paul, Oct. 27.—The present good financial conditions in Minnesota are reflected in figures made public by Julius A. Schmah, secretary of state, showing the number of corporations started in the state since July 15 and their total amount of capitalization.

It was late in July when Austria-Hungary declared war on Serbia, which resulted in a death struggle among nations. Since that time 167 corporations have filed articles of incorporation under the laws of Minnesota. Their total capitalization is $13,180,000.

Eight Minnesota corporations have increased their capitalization during this time for a total of $820,000.

TRAGEDY FOLLOWS QUARREL

Mystery Surrounds Hotel Murder at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Oct. 27.—A quarrel over money matters is believed by the police to have been responsible for a mysterious murder and suicide in the Gateway hotel. A man and a woman, whose identities are not completely established, were shot to death in a room of the hotel at 9 p. m.

The man had been living at the hotel, according to John Madison, the proprietor, since last July, under the name of C. E. Stante.

The only identification of the woman was contained in the legend, "Oscar to Hazel," inscribed in her bracelet. The man was about thirty years old and the woman twenty-two.

WHEAT SELLS FOR $1.11

Highest Price Paid at Seattle for Export Trade.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 27.—Club wheat sold in Seattle at $1.11 a bushel, or $1 to the farmer, the highest price ever paid on this market for the export trade. The high level in August was 13 cents under this figure. Local grain buyers say that purchasers for the United Kingdom, to whom the wheat will go, were not particular as to the price, but only as to how much wheat can be supplied.

Incorporations Reflect Minnesota Financial Conditions.

St. Paul, Oct. 27.—The present good financial conditions in Minnesota are reflected in figures made public by Julius A. Schmah, secretary of state, showing the number of corporations started in the state since July 15 and their total amount of capitalization.

It was late in July when Austria-Hungary declared war on Serbia, which resulted in a death struggle among nations. Since that time 167 corporations have filed articles of incorporation under the laws of Minnesota. Their total capitalization is $13,180,000.

Eight Minnesota corporations have increased their capitalization during this time for a total of $830,000.

TRAGEDY FOLLOWS QUARREL

Mystery Surrounds Hotel Murder at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Oct. 27.—A quarrel over money matters is believed by the police to have been responsible for a mysterious murder and suicide in the Gateway hotel. A man and a woman, whose identities are not completely established, were shot to death in a room of the hotel at 9 p. m.

The man had been living at the hotel, according to John Madison, the proprietor, since last July, under the name of C. E. Stante.

The only identification of the woman was contained in the legend, "Oscar to Hazel," inscribed in her bracelet.

The man was about thirty years old and the woman twenty-two.

WHEAT SELLS FOR $1.11

Highest Price Paid at Seattle for Export Trade.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 27.—Club wheat sold in Seattle at $1.11 a bushel, or $1 to the farmer, the highest price ever paid on this market for the export trade. The high level in August was 13 cents under this figure. Local grain buyers say that purchasers for the United Kingdom, to whom the wheat will go, were not particular as to the price, but only as to how much wheat can be supplied.

TUCKERTON WIRELESS FIXED

Station is in Condition to Receive and Send Messages.

New York, Oct. 27.—Announcement was made that the high powered radio wireless station at Tuckerton, N. J., which was burned out several weeks ago, has been repaired and is in condition to receive and send messages. The United States navy department will continue to exercise a strict censorship over the messages handled.

MARGOT BEATON STOCK CO.

Open their Engagement at the Park Theatre in the Play, "In the Bishop's Carriage"

An audience comfortably filling the Park theatre on Monday evening had the pleasure of witnessing the initial performance of the Margot Beaton stock company in the comedy-drama,
"In the Bishop's Carriage."
Miss Beaton as Nance Olden portrayed the role most acceptably and was ably supported by the leading man, Boris Karloff as William Latimer.
For quiet comedy work the actor in the part of Mr. Ramsey made a hit.

The Margot Beaton stock company is above the ordinary slap dash repertoire company. Their plays are tales with a purpose, finely acted and equipped with most appropriate scenery. In this, their first season in Brainerd, they are worthy of patronage.

During their engagement of four weeks in Brainerd they will present such standard plays as "The Girl from Out Yonder," "Camille," "Paid in

Early Umbrellas.

As late as 1784 Cowper, in describing the change which was then taking place in the manners and customs of all classes, mentions the umbrella in such a way as to show that, although its use was becoming much more general, yet its adoption by the lower classes was still sufficiently novel to call for comment.

Though the umbrella was not adopted by gentlemen during daylight until almost the end of the eighteenth century, there appears to have been previously a kind of transition period, during which an umbrella was kept at many coffee houses for the use of fashionable or effeminate men when the night was a wet one.

OUCH! LUMBAGO PAIN! RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Rub Soreness, stiffness right out with a small trial bottle of old
"St. Jacob's Oil"

Kidneys cause Backache? No!
They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil." Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears.
Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

Rub old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" whenever you have sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains, as it is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.—Adv. 115-1m

DECORATIONS
FOR HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en is a Spooky, Weird Night and Light From Bonfire Should be in Evidence

FAIRIES COME, GO AND DANCE

Decorations, Tastefully and Originally Arranged, Make Most Effective Rooms

Aside from the old-time pumpkins, jack-o'-lanterns and autumn leaves, and decorations made of crepe paper there are few decorations to employ in preparing the Hallowe'en frolic; but these, tastefully and originally arranged, make most effective rooms. Hallowe'en is a spooky, weird night and no light save that from a bonfire or that which peeps out from behind great pumpkin faces on shelves or table or porch eaves must be in evidence. The bonfire is the traditional light, and by its alluring flame the fairies are said to come and dance and tell mere mortals of their future mates. In smaller towns or in the suburbs of cities the bonfire is still a custom of the night, but in cities there is little opportunity for one.

A pretty Hallowe'en supper table is left bare with only the highly polished wood in evidence and perhaps a doilie or two of linen-colored cloth, nothing white nor of lace. In the center stands a big pumpkin with a face cut on each side and inside a big plumber's candle. Heaped all about the jack-o'-lantern are big red and green apples highly polished and oranges, nuts and raisins. For more light there are four candlesticks cut from the large end of yellow gourds in which are stuck short plumber's candles.

If there is a shelf or mantel in the room there should be two or three oddly carved faces in pumpkins, each with a light behind, and a weird-looking lantern may be made by putting discs of red isinglass over the eyes with a black pencil dot in the center.

A tablecloth made entirely from oak leaves is pretty, but perishable. The leaves, which are all the shades of red and green and brown, are collected with a view to having them as much the same size as possible. Then the stems are removed and the leaves are pinned together with the stems in long strips. After there are yards and yards of this leaf ribbon completed, it is separated into sections long enough to cover the table and fastened together with more stems from other leaves. On top of this cloth of autumn leaves the pumpkins are set. It makes one of the very prettiest table decorations for a Hallowe'en party.

Portieres and window curtains are made from autumn leaves pinned together in the same way and held back with big clusters of small branches. The leaf ribbons are pinned over a curtain pole made from a branch bared of its leaves.

Besides the natural decorations of autumn there are quantities of favors in the shops of the Hallowe'en party; bonbon dishes made to simulate small pumpkins, favors of the same sort, and queer little men with big pumpkin heads to stand at each place at a Hallowe'en supper.

For the barn dance, so popular where barns are the property of every one, a frieze of jack-o'-lanterns makes the most effective decoration; and the guests at a barn dance for Hallowe'en should be masked, the weird masks and costumes adding to the color of the occasion.

Fashion has decreed that to be fashionable one must be modest. Silhouette gown and flimsy petticoat, which left little to the imagination of the casual observer, are to be cast into the discard. This is the decree contained in a bulletin of 1915 styles issued from the headquarters of the Fashion Art League of America in Chicago and sent to thousands of club and society women in the United States by Mme. Alla Ripley, whose motto is "American gowns for American women."

Whether it is a sign woman suffrage will carry in South Dakota this fall or there is some other psychological reason it is a fact that for nearly two years not a single boy baby was born in Bath township, in Brown county, S. ## Eighteen Girl Babies to One Boy.

Whether it is a sign woman suffrage will carry in South Dakota this fall or there is some other psychological reason, it is a fact that for nearly two years not a single boy baby was born in Bath township, in Brown county, S. D. In that time eighteen girl babies made their appearance in as many homes. Finally in September a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. Keller, and there was great rejoicing not only in the Keller family, but all through the township.

CONGRESS WANTED TO AID THE SOUTH

Many Cotton Relief Suggestions
Were Not Practical.

MAN OF THE HOUR NEEDED.

Situation Prolonged Session of Congress Beyond Expectations—Martinez's Plea to Southerners to Allow War Tax Bill to Pass and Save the Democratic Party.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Helping cotton has prolonged the session of congress beyond the expectation of the leaders. Some of the minority members felt like making the session continuous on account of the delay and said they would not have consented to the arrangements for bringing the session to a close if they had known a filibuster was to have been inaugurated.

One great difficulty the cotton men have to face is the impracticability of many suggestions for relief which are presented. There is deep sympathy with the cotton men and with the south, and there is a general feeling that every possible effort should be made to avert the disaster which seems to be upon them. As Senator Borah of Idaho stated, when calamity comes upon a section of the country it is the duty of the nation to go to its relief.

Could Not Agree.

As usual when grave questions arise the representatives of the people most interested could not agree among themselves as to the best method of extending national relief. There were men from the south who had doubts about the right or power of the national government to take any action. These were extreme state rights men, a few of whom are still left in congress.

The great majority, however, believed that congress ought to take some action, and a way ought to be found to grant relief. There was certainly an opportunity for the "man of the hour" on this occasion, for nearly everybody wanted to help the south if he could have found a way.

His White Elephant.

There is a southern senator whose good nature is like sunshine in the senate, who will do almost anything to accommodate a fellow being, and this good nature has placed a white elephant on his hands. He is admired by a southern lady of means. This lady not long ago purchased a fine limousine automobile, but was called away from Washington and sought to dispose of it. The machine, which cost some $5,000, would not bring $800. After a time she decided to bestow it upon the senator. Now he has it, must pay for its housing, and yet he can't afford to run it. He doesn't want it, but is afraid to give it away because the lady may return and ask for it. And so his good nature loads him with this white elephant.

Selling a Few Bales.

Private John Allen of Mississippi, the only man who ever made the Confederate private famous in congress, came to Washington during the height of the cotton discussion. "I just dropped in to sell a few bales of cotton," he said to his numerous friends. "I understand they are buying cotton up here." He referred to the "buy a bale club" which had its inception in Washington. Allen's remarks were sarcastic, for the buying of a bale here and there when there are 15,000,000 to sell doesn't make a dent in the cotton situation.

A New Jersey Appeal.

Several appeals were made to southern senators not to defeat the revenue bill, and among them was one from Martinez of New Jersey. "I love the sunny south," he said. "I love its people, I love its bloom, I love your grassy forests and your sun kissed hills, I love your disposition; but, in heaven's name and for the credit of the Democratic party, I appeal to you on grounds of patriotism to cease and pass this bill."

Too Late to Be Effective.

Although the Congressional Record is filled with political speeches, they are nearly all too late to be effective in this campaign. By the time they reach constituents the election will be so close that voters will be influenced by such speeches even if they have time to read them. It is to be doubted whether the circulation of long winded campaign speeches is of any good politically. They might have had some effect forty or even thirty years ago. But in these days a little advertising in a country paper is far more effective than tons of campaign speeches made in congress.

$25,000,000 to Colombia.

There has been enough said at various times to show that there is a real disposition to pay Colombia $25,000,000 on account of the aid which this government is said to have rendered Panama in 1903. One thing is certain, the canal would not have been built, or at least it would have been long delayed and we would have been held up for large sums, if there had not been a revolution in Panama. That it was aided by this government there can be no doubt. It could not have succeeded but for the presence of American warships.

The Drum Song

Corporal, what will you have today—The funeral march or the reveille?
Corporal, what will you have us sing.
The gates of death or the gates of spring?
Rat-a-tat-tat, we are ready, sir,
With a ripple and a roll
To play you the tune of the merry fight
Or the dirge of the dying soul!

Corporal, what will you choose today
For the tune that the army drums shall play?
March, retreat or a quickstep thrum?
Corporal, what of the army drum?
Rat-a-tat-tat, we are taut and fine,
With a throb at every beat,
For a dead march under the drooping pine
Or a fanfare brisk and sweet!

Corporal, tell us your wish and will.
The slow retreat or the charge to kill?
Corporal, whether our sticks with glee,
What shall the song of the war drum be?
Rat-a-tat-tat, and horses and men
Shall thrill and dash away
And never to march to the tune again
That the drums of the army play!

Corporal, morning is fresh and fine.
What shall we play for the ranks in line?
Corporal, ready, and greet you, dear,
With a serenade for the cannoneer!
A serenade for the cannoneer,
And one for the major, too,
And when they have silenced the army drums
Good night, dear sir, to you!

Good night, dear sir. Shall taps be played?
And, ah, for the hearts that are unafraid
And the drummer men and the drummer boy
And the drums that sing out of very joy!
Rat-a-tat-tat, we are ready, sir,
Whatever the tune you say,
The funeral march or the double quick
Or the call of the reveille!

OMAHA EAGER TO HELP IN
"BUY A BALE" MOVEMENT.

City Is Willing to Share Its Prosperity
With Southern Cotton Farmers.

Recognizing the unfortunate condition in the south, where the cotton farmers are unable to market their product, the Commercial club of Omaha by unanimous vote of its members has entered into the spirit of the buy a bale of cotton campaign by placing its order for five bales. This action was supplemented by the agreement to assist the southerners in any campaign which they would inaugurate in Omaha which might tend to a more general co-operation in buying cotton.

Omaha, which serves the middle west, especially the Missouri river valley states as a metropolis, is particularly fortunate this year in that the yields from its fields have been enormous. Record breaking corn, wheat and alfalfa crops have stimulated business as never before, and prices are higher.

In entering into the buy a bale of cotton propaganda Omaha's business men made one request—that the money so expended go into the pockets of the farmer rather than to the speculator. Stipulation has been made that the cotton be of the new crop and bought direct from the farmer. Negotiations are being carried on through the Montgomery (Ala.) chamber of commerce.

Miss Anne Regan, prominent in musical circles in Madison, and Stuart J. Fuller of Washington, D. C., long in the United States consular service, will be married soon.

WILL NOT ATTACK ITALY

Germany Officially Denies Newspaper Reports.

London, Oct. 27.—The following dispatch from Berlin has been received by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company:

"It is officially denied that the German general staff officers visited Trent, in the Italian Tyrol, with a view to arranging for the transport of German troops in order to attack Italy because of Italy's neutrality. Reports to this effect which have appeared in Italian papers are described as inventions."

Biggest Gun For Our Navy.

With the utmost secrecy the navy department, the New York American learns, has completed a powerful sixteen inch gun as a new type, said to be the largest and most destructive naval engine of war. Inquiry at the navy department in Washington concerning the gun was met by the reply, "The government does not wish anything said about this new construction."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it incurable, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. SAFETY UNDER OLD GLORY.

Americans in Brussels Decorated Autos With Homemade Flags.

After being shut up in the American legation at Brussels for weeks, Mrs. G. R. Brainerd, mother-in-law of Brand Whitlock, minister to Belgium, on her arrival in Springfield, Ill., told how she and others worked five days making American flags to put on an automobile when they left the Belgian capital to insure their protection, and added that she "never knew what a grand old emblem it was until then."

As soon as the German occupation of the city was made, Mrs. Brainerd said, those in the legation virtually were shut out from the world.

"All Americans in the city carried American flags to insure their protection," said Mrs. Brainerd, "and when we were ready to return home we found that we were unable to buy any flags. Then we set about our task of making them out of hunting and using white felt for the stars. When opportunity came we secured our passports from the Germans, decorated our automobile with our hand made flags and left."

GOTFRED S. SWANSON

COUNTY ATTORNEY

CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

To the Voters of Crow Wing County:

In asking for re-election as County Attorney, I desire to state that I stand squarely upon my record, and ask that you compare my record as a public officer with that of my opponent.

I was busy in District Court from the first of May until after the Primary Election, and therefore could not see you, so that the votes I received at the Election, when nominated, were not because of personal solicitation or campaign. This I greatly appreciated and thank you for your support and for the confidence you placed in me.

I believe that my two years experience as county attorney makes me better qualified to perform the duties of the office if re-elected.

In actively prosecuting blind-piggers, disorderly houses, gamblers and other violators of the law as my court record will show, I have enforced the law and performed my duty, and in doing so, may have incurred the displeasure of some. This has taken much work and effort, but I believe that it has been appreciated by those who believe in Clean Government and enforcement of the law for which I stand.

I feel that my stand for Clean, Decent Government, Enforcement of the Law, Justice to all, and Special Privileges to None will be Endorsed at the General Election November Third, because I have Confidence in the Common Citizens of Crow Wing County and Those Citizens who have the County's Future Development and Prosperity at Heart.

Very sincerely yours,

GOTFRED S. SWANSON,
County Attorney.

Study It Out.

Here is a highly interesting paradox, which may amuse or bewilder, as the case may be. It is supposed to have been invented by Socrates: A. says that all Athenians are liars. A. is an Athenian and therefore a liar. Therefore his statement that all Athenians are liars is not true, and consequently all Athenians tell the truth. A. is an Athenian and hence tells the truth, wherefore his statement that all Athenians are liars is true. Therefore he is a liar and his statement false, and so on.

London, Oct. 27.—The following dispatch from Berlin has been received by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company:

"It is officially denied that the German general staff officers visited Trent, in the Italian Tyrol, with a view to arranging for the transport of German troops in order to attack Italy because of Italy's neutrality. Reports to this effect which have appeared in Italian papers are described as inventions."

SAFETY UNDER OLD GLORY.

Americans in Brussels Decorated Autos With Homemade Flags.

After being shut up in the American legation at Brussels for weeks, Mrs. G. R. Brainerd, mother-in-law of Brand Whitlock, minister to Belgium, on her arrival in Springfield, Ill., told how she and others worked five days making American flags to put on an automobile when they left the Belgian capital to insure their protection, and added that she "never knew what a grand old emblem it was until then."

As soon as the German occupation of the city was made, Mrs. Brainerd said, those in the legation virtually were shut out from the world.

"All Americans in the city carried American flags to insure their protection," said Mrs. Brainerd, "and when we were ready to return home we found that we were unable to buy any flags. Then we set about our task of making them out of bunting and using white felt for the stars. When opportunity came we secured our passports from the Germans, decorated our automobile with our hand made flags and left."

COUNTY ATTORNEY

CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

To the Voters of Crow Wing county:

In asking for re-election as County Attorney, I desire to state that I stand squarely upon my record, and ask that you compare my record as a public officer with that of my opponent.

I was busy in District Court from the first of May until after the Primary Election, and therefore, could not see you, so that the votes I received at the Election, when nominated, were not because of personal solicitation or campaign. This I greatly appreciate and thank you for your support and for the confidence you placed in me.

I believe that my two years experience as county attorney makes me better qualified to perform the duties of the office if re-elected.

In actively prosecuting blind-piggers, disorderly houses, gamblers and other violators of the law as my court record will show, I have enforced the law and performed my duty, and in doing so, may have incurred the displeasure of some. This has taken much work and effort, but I believe that it has been appreciated by those who believe in Clean Government and enforcement of the law for which I stand.

I feel that my stand for Clean, Decent Government, Enforcement of the Law, Justice to all, and Special Privileges to None will be Endorsed at the General Election November Third, because I have Confidence in the Common Citizens of Crow Wing County and Those Citizens who have the County's Future Development and Prosperity at Heart.

Very sincerely yours,

GOTHFRED S. SWANSON,

County Attorney.

Study It Out.

Here is a highly interesting paradox, which may amuse or bewilder, as the case may be. It is supposed to have been invented by Socrates: A. says that all Athenians are liars. A. is an Athenian and therefore a liar. Therefore his statement that all Athenians are liars is not true, and consequently all Athenians tell the truth. A. is an Athenian and hence tells the truth, wherefore his statement that all Athenians are liars is true. Therefore he is a liar and his statement false, and so on.

THEY SEE AEROPLANE

Pike Creek Residents Near Little Falls See Sky Monster with Headlight and Dark Tail

An aeroplane maneuvering over their homes caused much excitement among the residents west of Little Falls Sunday morning, says the Transcript. Joseph Brunet of Pike Creek saw the airman first and he called his wife's attention to it too. It was seen about 10 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Brunet, in describing what he saw, said it looked like a star when he first saw it, but its movements were too erratic. It was traveling at a high speed, he said, and turned first one way and then another, seeming to come from the direction of this city and disappearing to the north-east.

The machine remained high in air most of the time, he said, but would occasionally go to a great height and then suddenly shoot toward the earth, turning up again when almost down. No engine exhaust was heard, but the machine was perhaps too far away.

When he first saw it, said Mr. Brunet, it looked more like a star than anything else and he concluded that it was a star, but its gyrations soon proved that it was not. All he could see was the light of a headlight and a dark shape behind it.

There is a theory among some of the people who live near the scene of the aeroplane's activities that it may have been one of the new forest service machines going north. Mr. Brunet is French and it is probable that his first thought was of Zeppelins, but whatever it was, it aroused much curiosity.

E. S. Oakley, Assistant to U. S. District Attorney of Duluth, Writes of the

STATUS OF "DRY" TREATIES

Dept. of Indian Affairs has Absolute Authority to Close Saloons in all Treaty Territory

Sunday's Duluth News Tribune gives this lucid exposition of the Indian treaties covering Minnesota:

Will Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs, attempt a rigid enforcement of the treaties under which the court was given, prohibiting trafficking in liquor in the northern portion of this state?

Approximately 200 licenses are put in jeopardy by the supreme court decision, according to estimates of brewers, who have been in close touch with the situation.

That he has the power to do so is unquestioned. The decision of the supreme court of the United States given Monday, Oct. 19, affirms the decision of June, which declared that the Indian treaties are in full force and effect, and "shall continue and be in force until otherwise provided by congress."

E. S. Oakley, assistant to Alfred Jaques, United States district attorney, was asked yesterday regarding the rumors that another court action to prevent the prohibition of the liquor traffic in the Indian country in the northern part of the state was about to be undertaken.

"The decision of the supreme court is very full and explicit," said Mr. Oakley, "Under it the department of Indian affairs has absolute authority to close saloons in all territory included in the original treaties."

Asked if it were possible that the commissioner might enforce only the prohibition of selling liquor to the Indians or that he might enforce the "lid" only in Bemidji, since Bemidji was the only city mentioned in the decision of the court as a place in which treaty restrictions remained in force, Mr. Oakley said: "He cannot legally do so, under the decision given."

The points covered by the treaties with the Indians with regard to liquor are as follows:

No. 1.—Treaty of July 23, 1851.

Article V. The laws of the United States prohibiting the introduction and sale of spirituous liquors in the Indian country shall be in full force and effect throughout the territory hereby ceded and lying in Minnesota, until otherwise directed by congress or the president of the United States.

No. 2.—Treaty of February 22, 1855.

Article VII. The laws which have been or may be enacted by congress, regulating trade and intercourse with Indian tribes, to continue and be in force within and on the several reservations provided for herein; and those portions of said laws which prohibit the introduction, manufacture, use of and traffic in, ardent liquors, wines or other liquors in the Indian country, shall continue and be in force within the entire boundaries of the country herein ceded to the United States until otherwise provided by congress.

No. 3.—Treaty of September 30, 1854.

Article VII. No spirituous liquors shall be made, sold or used on any of the lands herein set apart for the residence of the Indians, and the sale of the same shall be prohibited in the territory hereby ceded until otherwise ordered by the president.

No. 4.—Treaty of October 2, 1863.

Article VII. The laws of the United States now in force, or that may be hereafter enacted, prohibiting the introduction and sale of spirituous liquors in the Indian country, shall be in full force and effect throughout the country hereby ceded, until otherwise directed by congress or the president of the United States.

No. 5.—Treaty of August 21, 1847.

No specific reference to the liquor laws is made, but the treaty does declare:

"It is stipulated that the country hereby ceded shall be held by the United States as Indian land until otherwise ordered by the president."

No. 6.—Treaty of February 27, 1855.

Article VIII.—The laws which have been or may be enacted by congress regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes shall continue and be in force within the country herein provided to be selected as the future permanent home of the Winnebago Indians; and those portions of said laws which prohibit the introduction, manufacture, use of and traffic in, ardent spirits in the Indian country shall continue and be in force within the country herein ceded to the United States until otherwise provided by congress.

ed States until otherwise provided by congress.

Since the making of the treaty of 1855 the country then ceded to the United States, with the exception of the portions set apart for Indian reservations, has been largely developed, gradually at first, but with great rapidity during recent years, and practically all the land has been populated by white people, opened to settlement and organized as political subdivisions of the state.

In the larger portions of the territory industries have been established and commercial interests have grown up. According to the census of 1910 the counties affected by the treaty of 1855 show a total white population of 382,191.

Bemidji, the county seat of Beltrami and the city mentioned in the decisions of the court as a place in which the treaty restrictions remain in force, has within its corporate limits about 7,000 people and, in connection with adjacent municipalities, constitutes a population of about 9000 people.

Other towns which will be affected, if Commissioner Sells decides to enforce the law rigidly, are Hibbing in St. Louis county; Brainerd, Crosby, and Deerwood in Crow Wing; Grand Rapids, Coleraine and Bovey in Itasca county; Aitkin in Aitkin county; Blackduck, Big Falls and Northome in Koochiching, and Walker in Cass.

Briefly stated, the pertinent historical facts relating to the treaty of 1855 are as follows: On Feb. 22, 1855 certain bands of the Chippewa tribes entered into an agreement with the United States government, by which the Indians ceded to the United States all right in lands owned by them included in certain boundaries (a tract of country in northern Minnesota which contains, approximately, 21,000 square miles.) There was reserved and set apart a certain amount of land for permanent homes of these Indians.

Article 7 of this agreement states: "The laws which have been or may be enacted by congress, regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes, to continue and be in force in and within the reservations described herein, and those portions of said laws which prohibit the introduction, manufacture, use of and traffic in ardent spirits, wines or liquors in the Indian country, shall continue and be in force, within the entire boundaries of the country herein ceded to the United States, until otherwise provided by congress."

"Pussyfoot" Johnson, former head of the bureau for the suppression of the liquor traffic among Indians, was the man who insisted that the terms of the treaty be enforced," said Mr. Oakley, "and he took the matter up first with our office about four years ago."

Mr. Johnson, who as head of the law enforcement bureau of the Indian service, was a terror to northern Minnesota saloonkeepers, and whose position has been vindicated by the decision of the United States supreme court holding the treaties still in force, is now living in Portland, Ore. He has given the following statement regarding the manner which the treaty cases were revived, "It is true," said Mr. Johnson, "that W. G. Calderwood joined in with the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, the Minnesota Woman's Christian Temperance union and business interests generally in supporting our campaign in Minnesota to protect the Indians from the liquor traffic, but it is not true that Mr. Calderwood had anything to do with discovering the provisions of the treaty of 1855, extending the then existing federal laws as to the introduction of liquor in the territory ceded thereby.

"About eight or more years ago a conviction was secured in the United States district court under this identical treaty provision. The liquor interests refused to appeal the case and compelled the defendant to serve a jail sentence, fearing an adverse decision. Little or no publicity was given the matter. The prosecution was brought at the instigation of the Indian office and under an opinion of the Attorney General but the matter was then dropped.

"I had been in correspondence with the Indian office, had made one trip to Washington and two trips to St. Paul seeking official backing in initiating this class of prosecutions in Minnesota before Mr. Calderwood knew anything whatever about the treaties so far as I know. This official support in Washington was secured with much difficulty because the treaties had lain dormant for half a century."

STATUS OF "DRY" TREATIES

Dept. of Indian Affairs has Absolute Authority to Close Saloons in all Treaty Territory

Sunday's Duluth News Tribune gives this lucid exposition of the Indian treaties covering Minnesota:

Will Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs, attempts a rigid enforcement of the treaties under which the court was given, prohibiting trafficking in liquor in the northern portion of this state?

Approximately 200 licenses are put in jeopardy by the supreme court decision, according to estimates of brewers, who have been in close touch with the situation.

That he has the power to do so is unquestioned. The decision of the supreme court of the United States given Monday, Oct. 19, affirms the decision of June, which declared that the Indian treaties are in full force and effect, and "shall continue and be in force until otherwise provided by congress."

E. S. Oakley, assistant to Alfred Jaques, United States district attorney, was asked yesterday regarding the rumors that another court action to prevent the prohibition of the liquor traffic in the Indian country in the northern part of the state was about to be undertaken.

"The decision of the supreme court is very full and explicit," said Mr. Oakley, "Under it the department of Indian affairs has absolute authority to close saloons in all territory included in the original treaties."

Asked if it were possible that the commissioner might enforce only the prohibition of selling liquor to the Indians or that he might enforce the "hid" only in Bemidji, since Bemidji was the only city mentioned in the decision of the court as a place in which treaty restrictions remained in force, Mr. Oakley said: "He cannot legally do so, under the decision given."

The points covered by the treaties with the Indians with regard to liquor are as follows:

No. 1.—Treaty of July 23, 1851.

Article V. The laws of the United States prohibiting the introduction and sale of spirituous liquors in the Indian country shall be in full force and effect throughout the territory hereby ceded and lying in Minnesota, until otherwise directed by congress or the president of the United States.

No. 2.—Treaty of February 22, 1855.

Article VII. The laws which have been or may be enacted by congress, regulating trade and intercourse with Indian tribes, to continue and be in force within and on the several reservations provided for herein; and those portions of said laws which prohibit the introduction, manufacture, use of and traffic in, ardent liquors, wines or other liquors in the Indian country, shall continue and be in force within the entire boundaries of the country herein ceded to the United States until otherwise provided by congress.

No. 3.—Treaty of September 30, 1854.

Article VII. No spirituous liquors shall be made, sold or used on any of the lands herein set apart for the residence of the Indians, and the sale of the same shall be prohibited in the territory hereby ceded until otherwise ordered by the president.

No. 4.—Treaty of October 2, 1863.

Article VII. The laws of the United States now in force, or that may be hereafter enacted, prohibiting the introduction and sale of spirituous liquors in the Indian country, shall be in full force and effect throughout the country hereby ceded, until otherwise directed by congress or the president of the United States.

No. 5.—Treaty of August 21, 1847.

No specific reference to the liquor laws is made, but the treaty does declare:

"It is stipulated that the country hereby ceded shall be held by the United States as Indian land until otherwise ordered by the president."

No. 6.—Treaty of February 27, 1855.

Article VIII.—The laws which have been or may be enacted by congress regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes shall continue and be in force within the country herein provided to be selected as the future permanent home of the Winnebago Indians; and those portions of said laws which prohibit the introduction, manufacture, use of and traffic in, ardent spirits in the Indian country shall continue and be in force within the country herein ceded to the United States until otherwise provided by congress.

ed States until otherwise provided by congress.

Since the making of the treaty of 1855 the country then ceded to the United States, with the exception of the portions set apart for Indian reservations, has been largely developed, gradually at first, but with great rapidity during recent years, and practically all the land has been populated by white people, opened to settlement and organized as political subdivisions of the state.

In the larger portions of the territory industries have been established and commercial interests have grown up. According to the census of 1910 the counties affected by the treaty of 1855 show a total white population of 382,191.

Bemidji, the county seat of Beltrami and the city mentioned in the decisions of the court as a place in which the treaty restrictions remain in force, has within its corporate limits about 7,000 people and in connection with adjacent municipalities, constitutes a population of about 9000 people.

Other towns which will be affected, if Commissioner Sells decides to enforce the law rigidly, are Hibbing in St. Louis county; Brainerd, Crosby, and Deerwood in Crow Wing; Grand Rapids, Coleraine and Bovey in Itasca county; Aitkin in Aitkin county; Blackduck, Big Falls and Northome in Koochiching, and Walker in Cass.

Briefly stated, the pertinent historical facts relating to the treaty of 1855 are as follows: On Feb. 22, 1855 certain bands of the Chippewa tribes entered into an agreement with the United States government, by which the Indians ceded to the United States all right in lands owned by them included in certain boundaries (a tract of country in northern Minnesota which contains, approximately, 21,000 square miles.) There was reserved and set apart a certain amount of land for permanent homes of these Indians.

Article 7 of this agreement states: "The laws which have been or may be enacted by congress, regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes, to continue and be in force in and within the reservations described herein, and those portions of said laws which prohibit the introduction, manufacture, use of and traffic in, ardent spirits, wines or liquors in the Indian country, shall continue and be in force, within the entire boundaries of the country herein ceded to the United States, until otherwise provided by congress."

"Pussyfoot" Johnson, former head of the bureau for the suppression of the liquor traffic among Indians, was the man who insisted that the terms of the treaty be enforced," said Mr. Oakley, "and he took the matter up first with our office about four years ago."

Mr. Johnson, who as head of the law enforcement bureau of the Indian service, was a terror to northern Minnesota saloonkeepers, and whose position has been vindicated by the decision of the United States supreme court holding the treaties still in force, is now living in Portland, Ore. He has given the following statement regarding the manner which the treaty cases were revived, "It is true," said Mr. Johnson, "that W. G. Calderwood joined in with the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, the Minnesota Woman's Christian Temperance union and business interests generally in supporting our campaign in Minnesota to protect the Indians from the liquor traffic, but it is not true that Mr. Calderwood had anything to do with discovering the provisions of the treaty of 1855, extending the then existing federal laws as to the introduction of liquor in the territory ceded thereby.

"About eight or more years ago a conviction was secured in the United States district court under this identical treaty provision. The liquor interests refused to appeal the case and compelled the defendant to serve a jail sentence, fearing an adverse decision. Little or no publicity was given the matter. The prosecution was brought at the instigation of the Indian office and under an opinion of the Attorney General but the matter was then dropped.

"I had been in correspondence with the Indian office, had made one trip to Washington and two trips to St. Paul seeking official backing in initiating this class of prosecutions in Minnesota before Mr. Calderwood knew anything whatever about the treaties so far as I know. This official support in Washington was secured with much difficulty because the treaties had lain dormant for half a century."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Make-Believe.

For upwards of three-quarters of an hour of that golden morning which followed the night of his return to New York, Mr. Law was permitted to esteem himself as the happiest of mortals.

And inasmuch as this is not only a longer uninterrupted term of happiness than is humanly common but is more of that emotion than ordinarily leaves the whole of a lifetime, Alan was perhaps to be envied, even though disillusionment when it came was sudden, sharp, and to him unspeakably shocking—a swift, unprepared plunge from sunlit peaks of supreme content to the black depths of a bleak Avernus of despair.

The beginning of the period was synchronous with the slam of a taxicab door that shut away a superfluous world from the company of two who loved.

The sound spelled safety as well as success in Alan's understanding.

The car slipped smoothly away from the curb, pursued only by a little gust of semi-ironic cheers from the little company of working men who had witnessed as well as measurably participated in the putative elopement from the house of Trine.

Vigilant for any indication that their evasion had had a witness in that strange home of deathless hatred, Alan watched it through the little window in the back of the cab until a corner blotted out the vision of it; then with a sigh of relief sank down by the side of the woman to whom his every thought, impulse and emotion were dedicated.

"Rose!" he whispered, and tentatively touched one of the hands that lay clenched in her lap.

She responded with never a sign to indicate consciousness either of his touch or his whisper.

And reminding himself of the strain imposed upon her by the experience through which they had just passed, Alan excused her unresponsiveness on grounds of reaction, and for the time felt constrained to let his sweetheart rest and regain her normal poise; there was bliss enough for him in the consciousness that he had won her safely away, that nothing now more than a short hour's drive across town and by ferry across the Hudson stood between them and the marriage that should prove the consummation of all their trials . . . Barring accident!

Alan had too often suffered the penalty of disappointment for over-indulgence in this falling of his for deprecating the unforeseen, not to make the mental reservation, "Barring accidents!" with a little shiver of dread.

Had any of Trine's household been cognizant of his daughter's escape, Alan argued, interference must have been instant.

Despite the reassuring aspect, the preoccupation of his companion so wore upon him that he was presently no longer able to refrain from disturbing her.

"Rose!" he begged again, closing a hand tenderly over hers. "Dearest girl, don't worry another instant! Do calm yourself; remember we are safe unresponsive. Then a long sigh shook her to her very heart, and of a sudden the small fist in Alan's grasp relaxed and her face turned to his like a flower to the sun, a face transfigured, its lips now soft and yielding, its eyes unclosed and smiling into his a smile all misty with unshed tears.

"Alan," she breathed gently. "It can't be true! I'm trying so hard to believe—but all the while I know it can't be true!"

He converted a skeptic with the mute eloquence of his lips.

Head upon his shoulder, the girl clung passionately to him. "Tell me again that you love me!" she prayed. "Promise me you'll never let anything come between us. Promise me, Alan—promise me you'll be kind to me always, dear!"

"Can you doubt I will be kind?" he murmured reproachfully.

"I am afraid . . ." she whispered.

"How could I be anything else, loving you as I do?"

"I am afraid . . ."

"Why should I be unkind to you?"

"It isn't that . . . I'm just afraid."

"Of what?"

"Of losing you."

"But that can never be!"

"You can't be sure. What if you were to find you'd been mistaken?"

She caught her breath and added hastily—"That you didn't really love me, I mean."

"Oh, that's ridiculous!"

"I can't be sure. Nothing in life is permanent. What is love? Illusion of the senses! What is happiness? A will-o'-the-wisp! What is life? A make-believe!"

"Dearest!" He held her more closely still. "You are nervous and overwrought. You don't know what you're saying. You can't mean what you're saying. . . . But say that it's so—that life is all make-believe. Then make-believe you love me!"

"Oh, but I do, I do!"

"And make-believe for a little we've caught the will-o'-the-wisp—only for a little—until you wake up and realize that it's all real and true."

She closed her eyes again. "Yes," she breathed, "you are right. Let's make-believe it's all true for a little longer . . . and forget . . ."

He could by no means account for this strange humor; but he did his best to comfort her, none the less tenderly because of his mystification. And for a long time she let illusion blind her, resting quietly in his arms, making believe . . .

Only on approaching the Twenty-third street ferry they must needs rouse and sit apart constrainedly for fear some one might glance through the window and surprise their secret.

As if one needed the evidence of a caress exchanged to know that they were lovers, who had eyes to see the flushed loveliness of the girl shrinking back in her corner or wit to interpret the radiant happiness that shone in Alan's face as he bent forward and watched warily from the window.

The sound spelled safety as well as success in Alan's understanding.

The car slipped smoothly away from the curb, pursued only by a little gust of semi-ironic cheers from the little company of working men who had witnessed as well as measurably participated in the putative elopement from the house of Trine.

Vigilant for any indication that their evasion had had a witness in that strange home of deathless hatred, Alan watched it through the little window in the back of the cab until a corner blotted out the vision of it; then with a sigh of relief sank down by the side of the woman to whom his every thought, impulse and emotion were dedicated.

"Rose!" he whispered, and tentatively touched one of the hands that lay clenched in her lap.

She responded with never a sign to indicate consciousness either of his touch or his whisper.

And reminding himself of the strain imposed upon her by the experience through which they had just passed, Alan excused her unresponsiveness on grounds of reaction, and for the time felt constrained to let his sweetheart rest and regain her normal poise; there was bliss enough for him in the consciousness that he had won her safely away, that nothing now more than a short hour's drive across town and by ferry across the Hudson stood between them and the marriage that should prove the consummation of all their trials. . . . Barring accident!

Alan had too often suffered the penalty of disappointment for over-indulgence in this falling of his for deprecating the unforeseen, not to make the mental reservation, "Barring accidents!" with a little shiver of dread.

Had any of Trine's household been cognizant of his daughter's escape, Alan argued, interference must have been instant.

Despite the reassuring aspect, the preoccupation of his companion so wore upon him that he was presently no longer able to refrain from disturbing her.

"Rose!" he begged again, closing a hand tenderly over hers. "Dearest girl, don't worry another instant! Do calm yourself: remember we are safe unresponsive.

Then a long sigh shook her to her very heart, and of a sudden the small fist in Alan's grasp relaxed and her face turned to his like a flower to the sun, a face transfigured, its lips now soft and yielding, its eyes unclosed and smiling into his a smile all misty with unshed tears.

"Alan," she breathed gently. "It can't be true! I'm trying so hard to believe—but all the while I know it can't be true!"

He converted a skeptic with the mute eloquence of his lips.

Head upon his shoulder, the girl clung passionately to him. "Tell me again that you love me!" she prayed. "Promise me you'll never let anything come between us. Promise me, Alan—promise me you'll be kind to me always, dear!"

"Can you doubt I will be kind?" he murmured reproachfully.

"I am afraid . . ." she whispered.

"How could I be anything else, loving you as I do?"

"I am afraid . . ."

"Why should I be unkind to you?"

"It isn't that. . . . I'm just afraid."

"Of what?"

"Of losing you."

"But that can never be!"

"You can't be sure. What if you were to find you'd been mistaken?"

She caught her breath and added hastily—"That you didn't really love me, I mean."

"Oh, that's ridiculous!"

"I can't be sure. Nothing in life is permanent. What is love? Illusion of the senses! What is happiness? A will-o'-the-wisp! What is life? A make-believe!"

"Dearest!" He held her more closely still. "You are nervous and overwrought. You don't know what you're saying. You can't mean what you're saying. . . . But say that it's so—that life is all make-believe. Then make-believe you love me!"

"Oh, but I do, I do!"

"And make-believe for a little we've caught the will-o'-the-wisp—only for a little—until you wake up and realize that it's all real and true."

She closed her eyes again: "Yes," she breathed, "you are right. Let's make-believe it's all true for a little longer . . . and forget . . ."

He could by no means account for this strange humor; but he did his best to comfort her, none the less tenderly because of his mystification. And for a long time she let illusion blind her, resting quietly in his arms, making believe . . .

Only on approaching the Twenty-third street ferry they must needs rouse and sit apart constrainedly for fear some one might glance through the window and surprise their secret.

As if one needed the evidence of a caress exchanged to know that they were lovers, who had eyes to see the flushed loveliness of the girl shrinking back in her corner or wit to interpret the radiant happiness that shone in Alan's face as he bent forward and watched warily from the window.

Vocabularies.

A well educated person who has been at high school and university uses from 3,000 to 4,000 words, but the average individual can get along with 1,000. Shakespeare made use of 15,000 and in Milton's works 8,000 are used. By actual count the Hebrew testament says all that it has to say with 5,612 words.

now; we fooled them handily—thanks to your faith and bravery, sweetheart! and everything is going to be just with us from now on. Over in Jersey the minister is waiting now to marry us; and down at the White Star dock the boat is waiting that is to carry us off to England the moment we're married. Think of that—and that I love you. Nothing can possibly break the strength of that combination!"

For another minute she rested as she had ever since sinking into her corner of the taxicab—moveless, taut,
